CORAM : V.M. KANADE, J.

DATED : AUGUST 30, 2007

P.C. :-

. The learned Counsel for the petitioners submits that the petitioner in both these petitions has taken away the papers from her. The learned Counsel, therefore, is discharged from appearing in this Court for want of instructions.

2. In the present case, the petitioners have challenged the order passed by the Charity Commissioner which has granted sanction for the sale of certain properties under Section 36(1)(a) of the said Act. It appears that no interim relief was granted in both these petitions and the learned Counsel for the respondents has submitted that Sale Deed was executed in their favour and in turn, they have constructed the buildings on the said property and the said flats have been sold to third parties and they have already taken possession.

3. In view of this, by efflux of time, both these petitions are infractuous and are disposed of as such.
